

Over 300 Songs for Halloween Theme Rides in Your Indoor Cycling Classes

Compiled by Jennifer Sage, updated October 2013

Halloween presents a unique opportunity for some really fun musically themed classes—the variety is only limited by your imagination. Songs can include spooky, dark, or classic-but-cheesy Halloween tunes (such as Monster Mash). Or you can imagine the wide variety of costumes and use those themes. I've included a few common themes such as Sci-Fi and Spy Thriller in my list.

Over the years I've gotten many of these song suggestions from various online forums, other instructors, and by simply searching online music sources for "Halloween", "James Bond", "Witch", "Ghost" and other key words. This is my most comprehensive list to date. If you have more song ideas, please email them to me so I can continually update this list for future versions. Jennifer@indoorcyclingassociation.com.

This year's playlist contains 50 new specific song suggestions and numerous new album suggestions. I've included a lot more from the "darkwave" and "gothic" genres. I've added "Sugar/Candy" as its own theme.

Sources:

It's impossible to list multiple sources for every song but to speed the process up for you, we list at least one source so you don't spend hours searching for these songs. As with music itself, you have your own preference for downloading sources, so you may want to check there first. Also, some countries may not have the same music available due to music rights.

My own preference is to first look on eMusic, because it is the least expensive means of acquiring music legally, that is, if you download a lot of music. Especially for Halloween or other theme songs, who wants to pay very much for songs that you'll probably use once a year? (Although a few of the songs included are more versatile and can be used throughout the year). Songs on eMusic are usually about about half the cost of iTunes when purchased as a member, so it may be worthwhile just joining for a month to download a bunch of songs at one time. When I cannot find it on eMusic, I'll then check Amazon, where songs usually cost $.10 - $.30 less than iTunes. Amazon has two sources, one for CD purchases and for Mp3s. Some are only available on CD, but make sure to check both. Amazon has probably the widest selection of all music. If you cannot find a song on any of these three, then Google the song and see if it is available on another source, such as a foreign download site (some unfortunately are foreign songs, only available in the US as imports). There are a few other sites I list, such as Spinning.com or a mashup site. Of course, Spotify is also a great source if you don't want to own the song, but you'll find that many aren't available.

In each of the sources, do a search for "Halloween" under "Albums". You will get dozens of additional options for Halloween anthems. Many are covers or remixes, some are good, some are really quite bad, but many will make good "filler" songs for your Halloween rides. You may also want to search for "soundtracks" or "films" for movies, such as Batman, Spiderman, the Matrix and more.

ICA now has five Halloween profiles to choose from, each with suggested playlists.

- Hounds of Halloween 2013
- The Feared Fang Mountain Ride 2013
- Truth AND Consequences 2012
- Trick or Treat 2012
- It's a Halloween Party in the Hills 2011

If you are lucky enough to teach several different classes over the Halloween week, you can teach a different ICA profile each day of the week! Or if creating your own, you may want to create a different theme for each one. Here are just a few options:

- Cheesy Halloween songs
- Spooky/eerie
- Monsters (Frankenstein, vampires, werewolves, zombies, etc)
- Murder (from various soundtracks, Johnny Bernstein, etc)
- Spy/intrigue
- UFO/Starwars theme
- Pirates
- Movie soundtracks
- Sugar/candy
- Middle Earth, fantasy

For the 300+ song playlist that follows (plus over 40 albums), I use the following abbreviations: E = eMusic; A = Amazon, I = iTunes, S = Spotify.

I have highlighted in yellow the songs that I particularly like, (and double star it when I really like it and it's almost always in my yearly Halloween playlist), but that doesn't mean some of the others aren't excellent or that you might like them better. I've also highlighted in green the newest additions for 2013, since many download my list every year.
